

Hunter Trauma Kit Small

Our Special Operations Medics specially designed this smaller trauma kit from lessons learned in the fields and mountains of Afghanistan. It contains critical survival equipment in a convenient smaller pouch, providing more versatility in the field. This small pouch easily fits in your bag, backpack or tackle box and is always with you in the event of an emergency. From small cuts to massive bleeding situations, be prepared with our Hunter Trauma Kit.

The three main components are the SOF@TT-W tourniquet, Tramedic Bandage and Petro Gauze. These three components treat life-threatening hemorrhage, severe lacerations and penetrating chest injuries caused by gunshot wounds, knife accidents, animal attacks or tree stand falls. Don't trust your life to a simple first aid kit full of small adhesive bandages, antibiotic cream and tape. Carry the same trauma components carried by top U.S. Special Operations Forces and elite Tactical Teams.
